SCRIPTURE-CENTERED REFLECTION JOURNAL

Held in Hope

A 7-Day Journal for a Grieving Heart

Making room for tears, remembering with love, and taking one faithful step at a time.

SEVEN DAYS · YOUR OWN PACE

A NOTE BEFORE YOU BEGIN

A Place for Your Heart

There may be things you wish you could say again. Questions you cannot answer. Ordinary moments that suddenly feel unfamiliar because someone you love is no longer here.

This journal offers a quiet place to bring those thoughts before God and spend time with His Word. You can remember someone you love, write honestly about what is difficult, and consider what might help you through today.

Each day includes a New Testament reading, a short reflection, a prayer, and a page with room for your own words. There is also one small, optional step you might find helpful.

These seven days are not a deadline for feeling better.

Use the journal at your own pace. You may spend more than one day with a reflection, leave a question unanswered, or return to these pages later. A few words are enough when that is all you want to write.

Keep your Bible nearby and read the passages in context. The short Scripture references in this journal are drawn from the New Testament; any direct quotation is identified with its translation.

This journal offers spiritual encouragement, not a substitute for medical care or professional grief counseling when such support is needed. If grief is making it difficult to manage daily life, reaching out for additional help is a wise step.

DAY 01 · SCRIPTURE & ENCOURAGEMENT

There Is Room for Your Tears

TODAY'S READING · JOHN 11:32–36

"Jesus wept."

John 11:35 (NASB 2020)

TODAY'S REFLECTION

There are moments when grief catches you by surprise. You may be doing something ordinary when a memory brings tears, or you may wake up already feeling the absence of someone you love.

When Jesus came to the tomb of Lazarus, He saw the sorrow of Mary and those gathered with her. He knew He would raise Lazarus, yet He wept. His compassion was not diminished by His knowledge of what would happen next.

You may believe firmly in the resurrection and still miss someone terribly. Those two things can exist together. Today, you can acknowledge what hurts without feeling that your tears are a measure of your faith.

TODAY'S PRAYER

Heavenly Father, You know the person I miss and the moments when sorrow takes me by surprise. Thank You for the compassion Jesus showed at Lazarus's tomb. Help me speak honestly with You about my grief. Give me strength for what this day holds, and remind me of the hope found in Your Son. In Jesus' name, Amen.

DAY 01 · YOUR JOURNAL

A Moment to Reflect

There Is Room for Your Tears

What has been especially difficult about today?

Is there something about your loved one you would like to remember?

What do you need most right now?

WHEN WORDS ARE HARD TO FIND

Today my heart feels…

ONE SMALL STEP · OPTIONAL

Give yourself a little quiet time today. If you would rather sit with a memory than write about it, that is all right.

DAY 02 · SCRIPTURE & ENCOURAGEMENT

When You Don’t Know What to Pray

TODAY’S READING · HEBREWS 4:14–16; ROMANS 8:26

An invitation to seek mercy and help when you need it.

Read Hebrews 4:16

TODAY’S REFLECTION

Grief can leave you with questions you cannot answer and feelings you cannot easily explain. You may sit down to pray and find that the words you expected to say simply do not come.

Hebrews reminds Christians that Jesus is our compassionate High Priest. Through Him we can approach God for mercy and grace in our time of need. Romans 8 also reminds us that the Spirit helps us in our weakness.

A prayer does not have to be long or carefully worded to be sincere. You can tell the Lord what has been weighing on you, ask for help with the next few hours, or simply acknowledge how deeply you miss someone. Begin with what is true today.

TODAY’S PRAYER

Heavenly Father, Some days I hardly know what to say. There are questions I cannot answer and feelings I struggle to explain. Thank You that I can come to You through Jesus Christ and ask for mercy and help. Please give me wisdom, courage, and strength for today. Help me keep turning toward You. In Jesus’ name, Amen.

DAY 02 · YOUR JOURNAL

A Moment to Reflect

When You Don’t Know What to Pray

What have you been wanting to tell God?

Is there a question or concern you have been carrying?

What would you like to ask Him for today?

WHEN WORDS ARE HARD TO FIND

Father, today I need help with…

ONE SMALL STEP · OPTIONAL

Take one quiet moment to pray in your own words. Even a single sentence can express what is on your heart.

DAY 03 · SCRIPTURE & ENCOURAGEMENT

You Don’t Have to Carry This Alone

TODAY’S READING · ROMANS 12:9–15; GALATIANS 6:2

Christians are called to share one another’s burdens.

Read Galatians 6:2

TODAY’S REFLECTION

People often want to help after a loss, yet it can be difficult to tell them what you need. You may not want to burden anyone, or perhaps someone’s response has made you hesitant to open up again.

Romans tells Christians to weep with those who weep. Galatians calls us to bear one another’s burdens. These instructions are not only for the person offering help. They also remind us that receiving care has a place in the life of the church.

You may need someone to listen while you share a memory, help with an unfamiliar responsibility, or sit beside you during worship. You do not have to tell everyone everything. One trustworthy person and one honest conversation may be a good beginning.

TODAY’S PRAYER

Heavenly Father, Thank You for the people who have shown me kindness. When I need help, give me the courage to ask someone I can trust. Help my brothers and sisters in Christ listen with patience and care for one another in practical ways. Teach me to receive kindness with gratitude. In Jesus’ name, Amen.

DAY 03 · YOUR JOURNAL

A Moment to Reflect

You Don’t Have to Carry This Alone

Who has offered kindness or support during this time?

What has been difficult to manage on your own?

Is there someone you would feel comfortable reaching out to?

WHEN WORDS ARE HARD TO FIND

One way someone could help is…

ONE SMALL STEP · OPTIONAL

If you feel ready, ask one trusted person for something specific: a conversation, an errand, a visit, or simply company.

DAY 04 · SCRIPTURE & ENCOURAGEMENT

Remembering Someone You Love

TODAY'S READING · PHILIPPIANS 1:3–8

Paul remembered people he loved with gratitude.

Read Philippians 1:3

TODAY'S REFLECTION

Sometimes it is the smallest details you miss most: a familiar voice, a favorite expression, the way someone laughed, or the ordinary things you once did together. Memories can make you smile, bring tears, or do both in the same moment.

Paul wrote to living Christians in Philippi and expressed his gratitude as he remembered them. Although he was not writing about bereavement, his words show how deeply other people can matter to us and how naturally remembrance can lead to thanksgiving.

Your memories do not need to be arranged into a perfect story. If your relationship was complicated, you can be honest about that as well. Today, remember in whatever way feels manageable. Love, gratitude, sadness, and unanswered feelings may all have a place.

TODAY'S PRAYER

Heavenly Father, Thank You for the memories I carry and for the good I received through the life of someone I love. Some memories bring comfort; others bring tears or difficult questions. Help me remember honestly and with gratitude for what was good. Give me peace as I face what I cannot change. In Jesus' name, Amen.

DAY 04 · YOUR JOURNAL

A Moment to Reflect

Remembering Someone You Love

What is a favorite memory of your loved one?

What little habit, expression, or tradition do you remember?

What is something about this person you would like others to know?

WHEN WORDS ARE HARD TO FIND

One memory I want to keep is…

ONE SMALL STEP · OPTIONAL

If you wish, write down one memory, look at a photograph, or share a story with someone who will listen.

DAY 05 · SCRIPTURE & ENCOURAGEMENT

Strength for Today

TODAY'S READING · MATTHEW 6:25–34

Jesus teaches us to seek God's kingdom and trust His care.

Read Matthew 6:33–34

TODAY'S REFLECTION

Loss changes more than our feelings. It can change routines, plans, responsibilities, and the way we picture the future. You may find yourself trying to make decisions you never expected to face alone.

In Matthew 6, Jesus teaches His disciples about worry and the Father's care. He does not tell them to ignore their responsibilities. He directs them to seek God's kingdom rather than allow the troubles of tomorrow to consume their attention today.

There may be practical things you need to do, and there may be things that can wait. You can ask for help, simplify what is possible, and attend to the next necessary step. You do not need a complete plan for the months ahead in order to live faithfully today.

TODAY'S PRAYER

Heavenly Father, The future feels uncertain, and some responsibilities seem harder than they once did. Please give me wisdom to recognize what needs my attention today. Help me ask for assistance when I need it and leave tomorrow's concerns in Your hands. Thank You for Your care and for the guidance of Your Word. In Jesus' name, Amen.

DAY 05 · YOUR JOURNAL

A Moment to Reflect

Strength for Today

What has been weighing on your mind about the days ahead?

What is one thing that needs your attention today?

What could make today a little more manageable?

WHEN WORDS ARE HARD TO FIND

My next needed step is…

ONE SMALL STEP · OPTIONAL

Choose one manageable task or act of care today. It may be a meal, a phone call, an appointment, or rest.

DAY 06 · SCRIPTURE & ENCOURAGEMENT

Finding Hope in Christ

TODAY'S READING · 1 THESSALONIANS 4:13–18

Grief and Christian hope can exist together.

Read 1 Thessalonians 4:13–14

TODAY'S REFLECTION

When you miss someone deeply, the word hope may feel distant. It can sound as though you are being asked to feel better before you are ready. But the hope Paul describes is not a demand for cheerful feelings.

Paul wrote to Christians who were concerned about believers who had died. He pointed them to Jesus' death and resurrection, the resurrection of those who belong to Christ, and the promise of being with the Lord. His encouragement was grounded in what God had revealed.

We may still have questions about someone we love, and Scripture does not authorize us to answer every question about an individual's eternal condition. We can leave what we do not know with the Lord while holding firmly to the hope He has given through Christ.

TODAY'S PRAYER

Heavenly Father, Thank You for raising Jesus from the dead and for the hope You have given through Him. When questions weigh on my heart, help me trust what Your Word reveals without making promises You have not made. Strengthen my faith as I grieve, and keep my eyes on Christ and His resurrection. In Jesus' name, Amen.

DAY 06 · YOUR JOURNAL

A Moment to Reflect

Finding Hope in Christ

What does this passage teach you about our hope in Christ?

Is there something about the future you have struggled to understand?

What truth from Scripture would you like to remember on difficult days?

WHEN WORDS ARE HARD TO FIND

Today I want to remember that…

ONE SMALL STEP · OPTIONAL

Choose a sentence or Scripture reference from today’s reading to keep nearby and revisit when you need encouragement.

DAY 07 · SCRIPTURE & ENCOURAGEMENT

Moving Forward with Love and Hope

TODAY'S READING · REVELATION 21:1–4

God promises a future without death, mourning, or pain.

Read Revelation 21:4

TODAY'S REFLECTION

Seven days may have passed since you began this journal, but your grief does not follow a seven-day schedule. You may feel a little steadier, or you may still be facing moments that are just as difficult as the first day.

Revelation 21 gives Christians a glimpse of the future God has promised, when death and mourning will be no more. It does not tell us that sorrow should disappear quickly now. It reminds us that suffering and death will not have the final word.

You can continue remembering the person you love while caring for the life before you. Return to these pages when you need them. Reach for support when you need it. And continue looking toward Christ, whose resurrection makes Christian hope possible.

TODAY'S PRAYER

Heavenly Father, Thank You for the hope of a future where death and sorrow will be no more. I am still learning how to live with this loss. Help me remember with love, receive care when I need it, and remain faithful to Christ in the days ahead. Keep Your promises close to my heart. In Jesus' name, Amen.

DAY 07 · YOUR JOURNAL

A Moment to Reflect

Moving Forward with Love and Hope

What has brought you comfort during these seven days?

Is there a memory you would like to carry with you?

What support might be helpful as you continue?

WHEN WORDS ARE HARD TO FIND

As I continue, I need…

ONE SMALL STEP · OPTIONAL

Choose one source of encouragement to continue in the days ahead: a trusted friend, worship, Scripture, practical help, or counseling.
